SCOPE

This policy is applicable to all employees of Rainow School and covers all uses of social networking applications which are used privately.

This policy should be read alongside our Disciplinary Policy and Procedure, Dignity at Work Policy and e-safety Policy.

AIMS

To support all employees by establishing clear guidelines on the proper use of social media so that:

- the school is not exposed to legal challenge;
- the reputation of the school is not adversely affected;
- employees do not put themselves in a vulnerable position;
- employees understand how information provided via social networking applications can be representative of the school; and
- the use of social media does not impact negatively on the school.

PRINCIPLES

We recognise that many employees make use of social media in a personal capacity and, in the majority of cases, this is uncomplicated and trouble-free. Whilst we respect an employee's right to a private life and have no wish to interfere with this, when using such sites employees must consider the potential impact it could have on their professional position, their own reputation and that of Rainow School.

The following identifies how an employee's personal life and work life can start to overlap:

- By identifying themselves as employees of the Rainow School, i.e. adding the school name on profiles, the perception of users will be that staff are representative of our school. It is therefore important that employees are mindful of the professional standards that are expected of them. Anything posted, including innocent remarks, have the potential to escalate into something that could potentially damage the image and reputation of the school or undermine its work. The originating comment may be traced back to an employee of the school and, even if they have not been involved in the latter stages of the comments, they may find themselves subject to a disciplinary investigation.

- Individuals making complaints search the web for information about staff involved in their case – finding social networking sites, blogs and photo galleries that could give fuel to their concerns or help them to identify personal information about them.
- Journalists increasingly use the web to research stories, and may reprint photos or comments that they find.
- Law firms research social networking sites as a matter of course in preparing divorce, private law children’s cases and other court proceedings.
- Some organisations also look on social networking sites to find out information about people applying for jobs.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Definition of Social Media

For the purpose of this policy, social media is a type of interactive online media that allows parties to communicate instantly with each other or to share data in a public forum. The term social media refers to a number of online networking platforms such as:

- blogs (written, video, podcasts), e.g. WordPress, Blogger, Tumblr;
- micro-blogging websites, e.g. Twitter;
- social networks, e.g. Facebook, LinkedIn;
- forums/message boards; and
- content-sharing sites, e.g. Flickr, YouTube and Instagram.

Employees should be aware that there are many more examples of social media and that this is a constantly changing area. Employees should follow the guidelines outlined in this policy in relation to any social media that they use.

School-related use of Social Media

We recognise the advantages that the responsible use of Social Media can bring and we will teach the children how to use this technology in a safe, appropriate and age-related fashion, in-line with our e-safety policy and procedures. The school has a Twitter account which all staff members can use to promote school life and to connect to a global audience. There are a few simple guidelines anyone with administrator rights must follow:

- Administrative rights to the school Twitter account must be gained after discussion with our Computing Subject Leader and after signing our e-safety ‘Staff Acceptable Use Agreement’.
- Users must check against the school ‘Media Permissions List’ before uploading any images/recordings of children to Twitter.
- School devices should be used to upload school-related information images/recordings/information to Twitter.

Personal use of Social Media at work

Employees are not allowed to access social media websites for their personal use from the school computers or devices at any time. This includes laptop/hand-held computers or devices (e.g. mobile phones) distributed by the school for work purposes.

We understand that employees may wish to use their own computers or devices, such as laptops and hand-held devices (e.g. mobile phones), to access social media websites while they are at work. Employees must limit their personal use of social media on their own equipment to their official rest breaks such as on their lunch break. The use of any personal computers or devices must be discreet, appropriate (e.g. never in the presence of pupils) and in no way interfere with work.

Social media in a personal capacity

Rainow School recognises that many employees make use of social media in a personal capacity. However, the employee's online profile, e.g. the name of a blog or a Twitter name, must not contain the school name. Furthermore, while they are not acting on behalf of the school, employees must be aware that they can damage the school if they are recognised as being one of the school's employees. Any communications that employees make in a personal capacity through social media must not:

- a. bring our school into disrepute, for example by:
 - criticising Rainow School;
 - criticising or arguing with management, colleagues, children or their families;
 - making defamatory comments about individuals or other organisations; or
 - posting images that are inappropriate, for example, photographs of themselves or colleagues taken at work or links to inappropriate content;
- b. breach confidentiality, for example by:
 - revealing any information owned by Rainow School; or
 - giving away confidential information about an individual (such as a colleague or child) or an organisation, e.g. Rainow School or the Local Authority;
- c. abuse their position of trust when working with children/young people, for example by:
 - contacting children or their families through social networking sites unless the reason for this contact has been clearly and firmly established by the Headteacher;
 - accepting any requests to become a named friend on a social networking site made by a child/young person; or
 - uploading any photographs or video containing images of children/young people for whom the employee holds a position of trust unless in line with our school procedures;
- d. breach copyright, for example by:
 - using someone else's images or written content without permission;
 - failing to give acknowledgement where permission has been given to reproduce something; or
- e. do anything that could be considered discriminatory against, or bullying or harassment of, any individual, for example by:

- making offensive or derogatory comments relating to sex, gender reassignment, race (including nationality), disability, sexual orientation, religion or belief or age;
- using social media to bully another individual;
- using social media to exclude other individuals; or
- posting images that are discriminatory or offensive.

Security and identity theft

Employees should be aware that social networking websites are a public forum, particularly if the employee is part of a "network". Employees should not assume that their entries on any website will remain private. Employees should never send abusive or defamatory messages.

Employees must also be security conscious and should take steps to protect themselves from identity theft, for example by restricting the amount of personal information that they give out. Social networking websites allow people to post detailed personal information such as date of birth, place of birth and favourite football team, which can form the basis of security questions and passwords.

In addition, employees should:

- ensure that no information is made available, or referred to, that could provide a person with unauthorised access to our school and/or any confidential information;
- inform their manager immediately if they suspect that their personal site has been compromised or accessed by an unauthorised person;
- refrain from recording any confidential information regarding our school on any social networking website;
- check their security settings on social networking site so that information is only visible to the people who they want to see it;
- put their name into an internet search engine to see what people can find out about them; and
- help friends and colleagues out by letting them know if they spot things on their pages that might be misconstrued.

Defamatory statements

Material posted on a site may be defamatory if it contains something about Rainow School employees, partners, children or other individuals that an employee may come into contact with during the course of their work that is not true and undermines our school reputation. For example, photographs or cartoons that may have been doctored to associate Rainow School or its employees with a discreditable act.

Libellous statements

Material posted on a site may be considered libellous if it is in permanent form and directly or indirectly clearly identifies our school or one of its employees or children with material that damages their reputation. Employees should always use their own judgment, but should bear in mind:

- that information that they share through social networking sites is still subject to copyright, Data Protection, Freedom of Information and Safeguarding legislation;

- the Code of Conduct; and
- other relevant school policies (e.g. Dignity at Work, Whistleblowing Procedure, Equality Policy and policies and guidance regarding acceptable use of ICT whilst at work).

DISCIPLINARY ACTION

All employees are required to adhere to this policy. Employees should note that any breaches of this policy may lead to disciplinary action under the school disciplinary procedure. In situations where it becomes known that an employee has posted material to be defamatory or a breach of contract, the employee will be asked to remove the offending material from the social media site immediately. Serious breaches of this policy, e.g. incidents of bullying of colleagues or social media activity causing serious damage to the school, may constitute gross misconduct and could result in dismissal.

EQUALITY

Rainow School will ensure that, when implementing the Social Media Policy, no employee will be disadvantaged on the basis of their age; disability or a long term health condition; gender re-assignment; marriage and civil partnership; pregnancy and maternity; race (which includes ethnic origin, colour and nationality); religion or belief; sex; and sexual orientation. This means that the policy may need to be adjusted to cater for the specific needs of an individual including the provision of information in alternative formats where necessary.

MONITORING

Data relating to the operation of this policy will be collated and monitored regularly to ensure that the policy is operating fairly, consistently and effectively. Issues that are identified from the data will be dealt with appropriately.

REVIEW

This policy will be reviewed, either in light of operating experience and/or changes in legislation, or every 3 years.
